A Concept Gallery Hong Kong presents Drifting in Exploration, solo exhibition of Yen Ching-Chieh. The exhibition features the imaginative oil painting, skillfully illustrates a post-human cli-fi world. The exhibition will be from 12 December to 24 January 2020. The opening reception will be held on 12 December from 6 pm to 8 pm. All are welcome to join.

The exhibition features selected artworks from Yen's series of Journey of Exploration which is the second volume of the cli-fi trilogy, Drifting In the Future. Since 2013, Yen Ching-Chieh became a cli-fi (or climate fiction), storyteller and combined the steampunk style with a fictional ecosystem to fantasize about an animal-centric world view in a future setting. The fictional world takes place in hundreds of years in the future, when the earth is no longer suitable for human habitation, and the creatures on the earth have evolved in order to survive in a hostile environment. Many animals have become gigantic and integrated with the natural environment. The land, sea and many living things on the earth evolve and cohabit into a never-before-seen manner. At the same time, the electricity, lights, machines and other technologies left by human ancestors are combined with the organism to form a new polymer of life.

As protagonists of the series, the gigantic animals are of the size of mountains. They integrate with artifacts, such as airplanes, roundabout, and light tower, and let smaller creatures to live in them. The organic structure of animals is like a battalion of Drifting in Exploration, cruising towards the uncertainty in the galaxy. The human figure is unsubstantial compared to the colossal animals. Whales, elephants, and jellyfishes are striding in elegant manner onwards with confidence. Although the destinations are uncertain, the adventurous spirit transcends spices and is infectious to the viewers.
